CoreStreet's KeyFast™ technology meets enterprise needs for physical and logical access to provide the highest possible security from door to device to desktop. Now, together with the development of a new line of door locks with ASSA ABLOY, the alliance is pioneering a first-of-its-kind generation of keyless door locks that enable identity management to meet the physical world (by extending the reach of physical access systems in a cost-effective way). By not requiring a secure, hard-wired connection to a trusted authority at each door, KeyFast-enabled products eliminate the main cost factor. Product line consists of Access Control Units and the corresponding Access Management Server. KeyFast/door locks by CoreStreet Ltd. and ASSA ABLOY. Circle 271.

"Security like this has to be seen to be believed. What once seemed impossible – an access control system without the need for hard-wired connections – is now the latest in cutting-edge control."
